Dedication: Dean John Christmas

John Christmas, Vice-President for Enrollment and Student Services, is approaching retirement after having diligently served our school for nearly thirty years.

Born in Laurel, MS, Christmas attended high school in Vicksburg, and went on to study at Louisiana State University. After his first year there, the Navy sent him to Millsaps to participate in an officer training program, after which he went to sea as a serviceman during World War II.

Having grown fond of Millsaps, Christmas returned after the War to complete his studies, and left with a B.S. in Physics. After college, he returned to his hometown, where he worked as a teacher/coach, and later as the Director of Guidance for the Laurel School System.

In 1961, Christmas began his work at Millsaps, and in 1972 was named Director of Admissions. Over the years, Dean Christmas has worked closely with administration, faculty, and students, his love of people making it easy for him to foster new relationships. As Vice-President for Enrollment and Student Services, Christmas has worked closely with prospective students, helping to counsel them as they consider Millsaps as their college-choice, and seeking to generate their interest in our school.

As Dean Christmas looks back on his years at Millsaps, he points to the relationships he has built with so many people as the most meaningful and enduring aspect of his experience here. Christmas finds great satisfaction in being able to "watch what people have done with themselves" as they have lived and studied here as college students, graduated, and sent their own children back to be educated here.

Although Dean Christmas looks forward to the leisure time that will come with his retirement, he anticipates remaining involved with the college and its people as an alumnus.

In compiling a yearbook, one usually becomes burdened with the facts of "what happened" over the past year. It becomes overwhelming for one to gather all events of any community into an organized manner covering a year long period. Millsaps' "comfortably small" setting is no exception. Throughout the year, the Bobashela office has become filled with more and more papers, memos, and flyers of "what has happened" recently. Yet, it seems that the piles of pictures are what spark the special memories. The smiles, laughs, and puzzled looks of those that have sorted through the pictures have been especially stirring. For it is not the day to day facts that need to be printed. It is the emotions we have gained through our inspirations and relationships among the community that we especially want to savor.

Community = Millsaps. We have all heard these words repeated together many times, probably beginning with the first time we set foot on the campus.

How do we define “our” community? Community’s underlying meaning is that of unity. Yet, we look sometimes at our differences, problems, and conflicts that our community struggles with and we ask where that unity is. A more in-depth definition of a community explains that the interaction is what defines the group. Interaction involves all of the frustrations, conflicts, and later revisions that take place among its people. And that is what is singled out in this community — the people.

As Millsaps’ people (students and faculty), we take pride in our diversity, but more importantly, our unity. Senior Price Williams comments, “I am constantly amazed at the uniqueness of each person I meet here.” However, she goes on to add that we all share one common thread. “It seems to be a requirement for every Millsaps student to earnestly care about their neighbors.”

This special unity is something that many of Millsaps’ graduates are still bragging about. Last year, being Millsaps’ centennial year, we were all re-introduced (for some of us, simply introduced) to past traditions, facts, and . . . memories of the first one hundred years. Therefore, without many of us realizing it, this year brought a sincere challenge with it. Where do we go from here? This was to be a very good question.

It was the start of "the new centennial." What were we going to add to fill the bicentennial celebration? As usual, the Millsaps community, may be without realizing it, did a lot!

When the residence halls opened August 26 and more and more students began filling the campus and cafeteria, it quickly became obvious that some major changes had occurred within our community. Millsaps had installed a new phone system with easier access for on-campus communication. This year's seniors, like Amy Ball, reflected on some of the changes they have seen during their four year stay here. Amy recognizes "the" bell tower dedication and the Olin science building dedication as the more prominent events. Yet, our introduction to the potato/pasta bar in the cafeteria was something everyone was talking about. Another physical change came — yellow caution tape went up in early October signifying the renovation of Sullivan-Harrell.

Some of the more typically talked about issues brought about some other changes. First, the dates for Greek Rush were set. As the P & W explained, most opposition to the five week delay centered on academic concern. "This year's Rush week, which was held over a period of three days for fraternities and two for sororities, met with mixed reviews from Greeks, with no apparent consensus of any one period." Another addition to the campus environment was something many freshmen did not even realize a new freshman visitation policy, allowing a greater extension of visitation which will hopefully be continued in years to come. The "No Smoking" policy that was implemented became another significant change. Many questioned what effect this would bring. Exceptions for no smoking in all building were allowed for personal offices separated by a door and for an occupant's personal residence hall room. The final outcome on these changes is yet to be seen as evaluation can only come in time.

Something that never seems to change at Millsaps is the quality of education.

Still, every member of the community knows that there is a lot more to Millsaps than formal education. Two seniors, Rachel Cook and Eryn Lynn Hackett, say they felt the community excitement and unity in all types of experiences: "staying up all night for a Heritage exam, watching a Major's game with students and professors, sitting in the bowl, Perspectives, Homecoming, SBA parties, watching a Millsaps' Players production, t-shirts for 'everything,' Major Madness, it goes on and on."

This year something else touched our hearts in a special way. As busy as we can get in our campus community, many students became very active in the Jackson and national community as well. This year we helped the Jackson area with services like "cleaning up" Livingston Park to the continuation of the Mentor program, as well as many other community services. At the beginning of the year, everyone had concern for the problems in the Persian Gulf. The P & W wrote that the "U.S. stood as lone strong man against Iraq." When the actual war started, the allies rallied with America so we were not alone.

Millsaps was no exception in remembering and expressing its concern as we say in the candlelight service held in the bowl and with the board in the student center in honor of friends, students, and family members involved in the war. We became more than an inward reaching group, but an outward reaching community.

Looking at all of these events, activities, and experiences and with commencement drawing closer, we as co-editors, begin to see our job toughening. For there is no way to put into words everything that has happened this year. But we hope this annual will provide a memorable look into the "new beginning" of Millsaps.

This brings us back to the question we were addressed with at the beginning of the year. Where do we go from here? "Higher and higher" is echoed in every corner of our campus. We were to build on our past, remembering the good and bad of it. We did grow this year, not simply in our college community, but among the Jackson and national community. In all of our efforts, we have answered the question and have shown that Millsaps is just beginning!

MSAPS
the beginning.

Features . . .

What was 1991 all about? Well, there were talent shows, dances, Major Madness, concerts, and more. But not only did the campus entertain us, programs like Friday Forum and the Arts and Lecture Series informed us about world issues, like the Gulf War, white supremacy, AIDS, and other pertinent topics. Activities were not purely educational or totally frivolous. However, students involved in Voluntary Service and the Millsaps Players combined both fun and learning. That's what 1991 was about . . .

"Festive Sights And Sounds"

Many students experienced a shock when they arrived in the bowl Saturday, October 20 for lunch. A Homecoming carnival was set up in the bowl with games, prizes, T-shirts, and, of course food. Alumni and their families returned to the campus to enjoy the football game and received a special treat with the carnival.

After the carnival, the football game against Central Methodist proved successful with a 43-21 victory for the Majors. The Homecoming court was presented. With crown and roses, Alicia Clifton was presented as the 1990 Homecoming queen. The other maids included: Jessica Deffes, Leigh Ann Smith-Vaniz, Shannon Williams, Edi Stuckey, and Blakeley Fox.

"Bungle in the Jungle" at the Jackson Zoo was the way most students spent Homecoming evening, dancing the night away. With a live band and party games (like limbo), the dance was the perfect celebration of the football victory. Couples ranged from loose and wild, blue-jeaned rebels to fully formal sophisticates.

The Homecoming weekend closed with a bang. Heads were turned to the skies as students stood in awe at the spectacle of lights that ended a victorious and eventful Homecoming weekend.

"World News"

In August, 1990, after several months of diplomatic and military threats, Iraqi troops stormed the tiny, oil-rich country of Kuwait.

Iraq justified the invasion by claiming that the al-Sabah family had already been overthrown by Kuwaiti rebels, and that Iraq was merely responding to a call for assistance from the new government. The next day, oil prices rose dramatically and world stock markets fell.

Five days after the invasion, on August 7, the United States agreed to send 15,000 troops into Saudi Arabia. The U.N. Security Council, also authorized the allied coalition to use military action if Iraq had not left Kuwait by January 15.

As this deadline came and went, Iraq continued its refusal to leave Kuwait. In accordance with the U.N. resolution, on January 16, the U.S. began bombing Iraqi military targets in both Iraq and Kuwait. It soon became apparent that bombing alone would be insufficient to force an Iraqi withdrawal. Ground warfare was imminent as the Gulf Crisis continued.

“Forum Fever”

Millsaps “Friday Forum” program is a unique way to bring regional and even national speakers along with many intriguing topics to the campus.

From entertaining to educational, the Friday Forum program addresses topics that interest nearly everyone on campus. The season opened with Walter Liniger, a musician from the University of Mississippi. He traced his own blues and folk music interest and brought a new twist to the “campus party” idea.

AC 215 was packed the Friday Joe Loy presented “Skin Heads: Terrorists of the 90’s.” And when researcher/investigator Frank McCloskey lectured on the occult, a large attentive crowd listened and asked questions.

In February, Friday Forum concentrated on education in America. Two area speakers, including Dr. Benjamin Canada, superintendent of the Jackson Public School District, challenged the state of Mississippi with certain goals and hopes for the future of young people.

What is also important about the Friday Forum program is the fact that most of the speakers are from the South, especially Mississippi. The resources of education, literature, and talents are not difficult to find.

“Cultural Crossroads”

Cultural crossroads — that’s the theme of this year’s Arts and Lecture series. Through writers, speakers, and entertainers, the program brings cultural richness to the college community and those that attend.

The season kicked off with “Readings By Four Southern Writers”. With Eudora Welty herself seated in the front row, a new generation of writers presented their work to the audience. Sometimes funny and sometimes sad, the excerpts from their novels glimpsed into Southern life through dialect, self-narrative, and vivid descriptions.

Paul Greenberg, Pulitzer prize-winning columnist, addressed what will probably be the issue of the decade, the Gulf Crisis. Greenberg originally planned to speak on how the Gulf situation could be resolved without war and why exactly the United States was involved. His speech had to be altered, however. Just twenty-four hours before his arrival at Mill-saps, U.S. planes bombed Baghdad, Iraq and the war was officially started.

Other highlights of the Mill-saps Arts and Lecture Series include the National Theatre of the Deaf, the Hilliard Ensemble from England, and Mark Selzman, martial arts expert and artist.

"With A Little Help From ..."

The Centennial Volunteer Project was started in the spring of 1990 with a goal of contributing 100,000 service hours during the centennial year to agencies, institutions, and programs (educational, religious, and civic) that address human needs. It involves not only the students of Millsaps, but also faculty, staff, administration, and alumni. A twenty-five person Advisory Committee co-chaired by students represents the campus organizations that sponsor the project. Two student coordinators work with advisor Don Fortenberry to achieve the project's goal. The total number of hours volunteered each week are posted weekly on a board above the stage in the bowl.

Students this year have participated in a variety of activities to achieve the project's goal. In the early fall, a group of students walked to Livingston Park for a Saturday clean-up day.

At Christmas time, sororities and fraternities sponsored a food drive to help the needy during the holiday season.

Other activities include a blood drive sponsored by the Black Student Association, collection of money for the Child Abuse Convention by Kappa Delta sorority, and numerous other events. In April, the Campus Ministry got the whole campus involved in the citywide Midtown Project. The project had students, faculty, and community members join together to clean up the neighborhood between Fortification and Monument Streets.

"We Must Learn"

"Education in the 1990s: A Concern for Quality" was the theme for this year's student symposium on February 5-6. Numerous distinguished speakers and panel guests highlighted an issue college students are especially concerned about today and about which they will be concerned in the future.

Jonathan Kozol, an educator, author, and social activist, opened the symposium with a presentation on the ethical obligations of the privileged classes to the education of the U.S. Dr. Ruth Campbell of Mississippi's Urban Education Center gave a talk that mainly addressed the conflicts and struggles of black students in the educational system. As a mother of two children in the Jackson area, Dr. Campbell addressed the problems with the Jackson Public School District's curriculum. She also commented on the lack of black role models for aspiring black professionals and the lack of support and motivation for black students.

The symposium closed with a panel discussion with several Mississippi educators participating. The panelists and speakers included Dr. Clyda Rent, president of Mississippi University for Women, Dr. W.J. Coggins of University of Alabama School of Medicine, Dr. Leslie McLemore of Jackson State University and Universities Center, and Dr. Edward Ranck, Associate Commissioner of Higher Education.

The student symposium is a program run by students for students. There was a good amount of support from students for the various activities held. Faculty members and community groups also participated in the informative presentations.

1991 Student Symposium Speakers

Jonathan Kozol, educator, author and social activist, is nationally known for his writings on issues of education and social justice in America. Educated at Harvard, awarded a Rhodes Scholarship to Magdalen College in Oxford, England, Kozol was an effective ally in the civil rights campaigns of the late 1960s. Unlike many activists, he has remained close to the classroom in the years since. His first book, Death at an Early Age, an account of his first year of teaching in the Boston Public Schools, received the 1968 National Book Award. Since 1976, his major concern has been adult illiteracy in the United States. He has designed an adult literacy plan for Cleveland which has been implemented in other cities across the nation.

Ruth Campbell has a bachelor's degree in language arts education and a master's degree in English linguistics. She has served as producer-director for Mississippi Educational Television and as special assistant in charge of scheduling for Governor Ray Mabus. She is currently associate director of the Universities Center, Mississippi's Urban Education Center, hosted by Jackson State University.

“Show Us What You Got”

Comedy, song, heavy metal, and blues — rock were the different paths talent show competitors traveled in search for the pot of gold (or $75). But the judges seemed to enjoy the singing groups best and the more original the better.

“Fresh Road Kill” opened the competition with a slam rock rendition of their tree frog song. Later in the show, a suede-booted lone guitarist, Auslander, performed a solemn vocal solo. Elvis Precisely, Ph.D, a full-fledged band, performed their version of “Maybelline” with a bluesy rock and roll feel. Also two other songs were played by the group in the same revved-up style. Dr. Shell and company got the audience involved in a Jethro Tull sing-along where the audience had to sing the chorus part of the song. It was a twist on the methods of the other acts that made for a different kind of fun. Two acts struck the audience with comedy routines.

Alison and Jack successfully played out the famous Abbott-Costello “Who’s on First?” routine. While Shawn McKenzie used everyday college experiences to jar the minds and laughter of the audience loose. Katie and Geoff performed a moving original song about freedom and solitude; Katie’s haunting voice rang clear abot

Geoff delicate guitar. The only dance group of the competition rocked the show with a high energy routine to “Gonna Make You Sweat”; Tara Collins and Tony Moore, better known as “T-n-T”, jammed to new and old hip hop moves. The winners of the evening showed up last, but certainly not least. “Gimme 5” gave a brilliant acapella performance that obviously stole the hearts of the judges.

All of the groups showed a lot of hard work and, of course, many more showed their stuff than are listed here. Cheers to a talented campus!

"Move Into The Madness"

"M-A-J-O-R! — what does that spell? — Major Madness! Friday, April 5 kicked off the annual Major Madness activities with a first annual Greek Street Party. Held in front of Fraternity Row, a live band entertained wild and crazy students into the wee hours of the morning.

For those stable enough to make it to the cafeteria Saturday morning, a continental breakfast was served from 9-11 am. With these hours, even late risers could catch a refreshingly tasty breakfast treat from food services. Later on in the afternoon, food, games, and sun were served up in front of Galloway Residence Hall. A lush fruit and vegetable display was part of a tent set up for lunch and dinner to serve hungry students throughout the day. Participating in volleyball games, playing "Twister", attempting a three-legged race or just lounging on the grounds, guys and gals let it all hang out.

By nightfall, the campus was hyped up for the annual Greek Show. Black sororities and fraternities from the mid-Mississippi area convened on the campus for a stepping show and competition. The showstoppers of the evening were the Alpha Phi Alpha Chapter from Tougaloo College. The Alphas danced and stomped their way to the first place award for fraternities. A tribute to the troops in the Middle East opened their performance, adding even greater meaning to their creed of brotherhood. The Delta Sigma Theta Chapter of Tougaloo stole the sorority award. With class, poise, and dignity, the ladies of Delta emphasized heritage and unity among black women. The Alphas and AKAs of Millsaps gave exhibition performances that started the show.

After the Greek Show, a Bandfest in the Bowl concluded the Major Madness weekend. Featuring "Freezehead" and "The Gunbunnies", the music moved Majors to dance and groove the night away despite humidity and mosquitoes.

Throughout the weekend, the Olin 6 film series presented several films.

So the Major Madness weekend had a full schedule and students made the most of every activity.

“John Loves Mary”

The 1990 summer play was “John Loves Mary” by Norma Krasna, directed by Lance Goss. This comedy, one of the great favorites of recent times, is being constantly produced by universities and little theatres.

The action takes place in 1946 in New York. John Lawrence (played by John Sweeney) has been overseas for three years where his life was saved by his buddy Fred Taylor (Lance Waycaster). Fred returns home a year before John, and John brings him what should be a pleasant surprise; news that he married Lily (Laura Legett), an English girl Fred had fallen in love with but who could not get to the U.S. unless she was the wife of a G.I. John marries her and plans to deliver her to Fred, then John hopes to get a quick divorce from Lily and marry Mary (Lynn Gieger). He and Mary had been in love with each other, but Mary and her family have no clue about what has happened with the Fred-and-

Lily situation.

John must go against the wishes of Mary and family when they insist on an immediate wedding. Matters are not helped when John learns that Fred has not only married someone else but is an expectant father, too. John and Fred get in touch with a former officer of their past acquaintance to help them out of this predicament. And the story goes on...

"The Warrior's Husband"

The first play of the 1990 fall semester was "The Warrior's Husband", a comedy by Julian Thompson, directed by Lance Goss. The play is based on Hercules' twelve labors, "And so, the Gods commanded, Hercules went forth on his ninth labor, to gain the girdle of Hippolyta, queen of the Amazons".

It begins in Hippolyta's palace (Elizabeth Reed) in the land of the Amazons, where men are on the dis-taff side, and where the soldiering women merely entertain themselves with men after the excitement of the battle. The Greeks are at the gate, and the ladies gird themselves for battle, but it is discovered that the warchest is empty. To replenish it, Hippolyta agrees to marry Sapiens (David Coats), whose mother Pomposia (Shelley Lose) promises her a large dowry. The queen dons her armor and prepares for the conflict while her husband then becomes a "wargroom". The queen's gutsy sister, Antiope (Lisa d'Amour) is carried away by Theseus the Greek (Douglas Mitchell), taking with him Hippolyta's girdle, the garment that symbolizes feminine superiority. The loss of the girdle very nearly results in turning men into the dominant sex when the lady warriors flock across to the tents of the Greek army making classical Whoopee. When, however, Theseus gallantly returns the girdle to Hippolyta, she quickly gets her forces under discipline again, and her flighty little husband, who has strayed during the excitement, submits to domestic authority again.

The scenery designs and technical direction were by Brent Lefavor and the fight choreography by Michael Kirkland. All of the action in the play was well combined with comedy to make an excellent performance.

“My Three Angels”

A Christmas play was presented by the Millsaps' players Dec. 6-9, 1990. It was a comedy, “My Three Angels”, by Sam and Bella Spewack, based on the story “La Cuisine des Anges” by Albert Husson. The play is set in a small town of Cayenne in French Guyana in Dec. 1910. Convicts from Devil's Island come to the town to work. Three particular convicts come to fix the roof of the house and store of a local merchant, Felix

Ducotel (Scotty Reddin). The convicts — Joseph (Shawn McKenzie), Jules (Apollo Lewis), and Alfred (Douglas Mitchell) — overhear the financial problems of Felix and his wife Emily (Elizabeth Reed) with their conniving cousin (Michael Bennison) and his nephew (Devere Jehl) and the sentimental problems of daughter Marie Louise (Katherine D'Armond). Because the family is kind to them, the convicts decide to attempt to rectify the problems. They become the family's three guardian angels.

The play was directed by Lance Goss. The stage manager was Shannon O'Shields, lighting design was by Shelley Lose, and the house manager was Sammy Morris. All the actors did a great job getting the play lively and ready for the audience during the busiest time of the school year.

Measure for Measure

The Millsaps Players began the second half of their sixty-seventh season with Shakespeare's tragicomedy "Measure for Measure," directed by Lance Goss and technical direction by Brent Lefavor.

The action begins when the Duke (Nate McKie) leaves the law in the hands of Angelo (Doug Mitchell). The Duke pretends to leave while in reality he disguises himself as a monk to watch how Angelo governs the people.

Angelo decides to enforce a law that calls for the execution of any man who "makes a woman with child" without being married to her. Claudio (Vere Jehl) has the unfortunate privilege of being the one Angelo chooses to use as an example. Claudio's sister, Isabella (Candyce Baldrige), a nun, is told of the grave circumstances. She comes to plead for her brother's life, but Angelo refuses to listen to reason. He becomes attracted to her, so he says that he will stop the execution if Isabella will give herself to him. Isabella is in turmoil.

The Duke/Friar comes to Isabella and tells her of a woman, Mariana (Jennifer McCormick), who was once betrothed to Angelo and who would gladly take her place with Angelo. Isabella agrees and Mariana takes her place. Afterwards, Angelo breaks his word and says that the execution will continue as planned.

Will the treacherous Angelo be stopped? Or will the Duke's plan be for nothing? The story continues ...

Bus Stop

What happens when a cowboy, a singer, a tipsy professor and a variety of other characters get trapped at a small diner/bus stop during a blizzard? That was the subject of the Millsaps Players closing production for the season. "Bus Stop" is a play by William Inge. It was directed by Lance Goss with the technical direction by Brent Lefavor.

The bus stop run by Grace (Emy Bullard) becomes a circus of interesting characters when the bus driven by Carl (Neal Breakfield) becomes stranded during a snowstorm. Cherie (Katherine D'Armond) is trying to escape the clutches of Bo Decker (Vere Jehl), a bronco bustin cowboy, who is bound and determined to take her back to Montana to marry her. Dr. Lyman (Shawn McKenzie) is trying to escape other things, by retreating to a bottle, and while capturing the interest of Grace's young worker Emma (Jennifer Bowden). Will, the sheriff (Apollo Lewis), tries to keep the peace among the group while Carl and Grace sneak off for a little 'fun'. Virgil (Andrew McWhorter), Bo's guardian, seems to be the only sane voice in the crowd when he gives sage advice to Bo. But will Bo listen or will he drag Cherie away against her will? Only time will tell...

Mr FFS ADS
the beginning.

People . . .

It's the people who give a college its uniqueness and style, and we've tried to capture these qualities in this section of the Bobashela. From the budding freshman to the seasoned professor, the people of Millsaps have created a rich and healthy environment in which learning is just part of education. It's the attitude of the students and faculty that has made Millsaps a community for intellectual growth and cultural awareness. People . . . that's what we're all about.

Sports . . .

For most Millsaps students, sports is more than just a game. Whether they are serious competitors or just out there for fun, athletics is a break from the grind of the classroom, giving students a chance to enhance their overall college experience. Some students choose to compete against other colleges and universities in organized varsity sports. During the course of the season, teammates cultivate longlasting friendships. Others prefer to join their fellow fraternity brothers, sorority sisters, and residence hallmates in intramural competition. This gives players the opportunity to strengthen existing relationships, as they share another common bond. So, even when this season is finished, the eternal bonds still remain.

A Show of Spirit

The cheerleading squad worked diligently and enthusiastically throughout the year to support Millsaps. They practiced hard during the summer in order to prepare themselves for the important games ahead. The work didn't end once school began, for they had to continue practicing for games while making signs announcing the games and travelling out of town for road games. This year the squad travelled to road games, including Sewanee and Kentucky Wesleyan college. Heading the squad this year were co-captains Jim Megehee and Melinda Wiggins, who led it in their quite successful year of representing Millsaps College in the most impressive manner possible.

The 1990 Millsaps season was one of ups and downs, but the majors set good standards for the teams of the future. With a final record of 5-4, this year's team recorded coach Tommy Ranager's first winning season as a head coach.

The majors started the season slowly, dropping a heart breaking home game to Davidson College 24-13 and losing to arch rival Sewanee 6-3 on the road. After the 0-2 start, however, the Majors stayed in the hunt and won five out of their last seven games. They recorded their first victory in a strong 45-14 win over CAC member Trinity University. The next week, the Majors suffered another tough setback, losing on the road to Emory & Henry 20-17.

After the Emory & Henry game, the Majors went on a tear. They started a three game winning streak by defeating the 1989 CAC champion Centre College team. The Majors were due for a strong, hard fought win and the 17-9 victory was it.

The next week they travelled to Lambuth College and beat the Eagles 27-20. The following week, the Majors cruised to a 43-21 Homecoming game victory over Central Methodist College. Bass had a spectacular game, rushing for 155 yards and three touchdowns.

As good as the Millsaps offense was during the winning streak, it was just as frustrated in a 6-0, grudge match loss to Rhodes College. However, the Majors made a quick recovery in the final game of the season, blasting Kentucky Wesleyan College 56-6 on the road. We would like to thank these players for their contributions to Millsaps College and wish them the best for the future.

A Team On The Rise

After a hard first road trip including a 5-1 loss to nationally ranked Emory and a 2-2 tie to Columbus Univ., the Majors came home and lost to Maryville 1-4. Then the Majors had an intra conference weekend, and tied Oglethorpe 0-0 and Trinity 2-2. The Majors got the first win of the season in double overtime over defending CAC champion Sewanee 2-1. Then the Majors beat LSU — Shreveport 7-1. Then the Majors played in a tournament at Hinds Junior Court in which they beat Hinds 3-1, Miss. State 5-3, and then lost to nationally ranked Richland College 2-1 in the finals. Next was a trip to St. Louis over fall break, during which the Majors went 3-0 with wins over Maryville, Parks College, and Blackburn Univ. The Majors then came home afterwards to beat their alumni 2-0 in OT and lose the final conference game to Rhodes 1-0. They still made it to the CAC tournament, where they lost to Centre College 4-3. They then beat Rhodes in the consolation match 3-1. The Majors finished 9-5-4.

Building For The Future

The 1990 Millsaps women's soccer team had a promising season, with several significant victories including a season opening 5-1 win over Tulane University, two wins, 3-1 and 2-1 over arch rival Rhodes College, and wins over Oglethorpe 5-0, and Agnes Scott College, 8-1. Due to the strong performances by the freshman and sophomore players, the years ahead look bright for the Majors. The team will be a cohesive force next year and will surely have a winning season.

An Exciting Winning Season

This year's team boasted the Majors' first winning team in three years. Factors instrumental to the team's new found success were newcomers Tim Vaughan, Phillip Robinson, Shawn Croft, and Bert Gardner. Vaughan, a junior college transfer from Columbus, MS, guided the team from the point position. With his smooth passing and a high level of intensity, he led the Majors through many exciting games. Freshman Phillip "Prime Time" Robinson, a graduate of Lanier High School, Jackson, MS, led the majors offensively. With a potent inside and outside game, Robinson established himself as a force in the CAC. He earned All CAC Honors with his consistent good play. Shawn Croft, who transferred from the same Jr. college as Vaughan, started out as a dominating center, but had a season ending injury in the third game of the season. The loss of his towering presence caused the Majors, who were 3-0 with him, to lose five out of the next seven games before they adjusted. Bert Gardner, along with Jeff Turnipseed and Doug Wilson, drew the assignment of filling Croft's shoes. All three of them gave quality minutes to the majors and provided the crowd with many exciting moments. The team played many close games and seemed capable of beating most of its opponents, but it lost a few close and exciting games.

At the beginning of the year, no one on the women's basketball team knew what to expect. Well, the bumpy road that they were on last season turned smooth, and with the inspiration of the new coach Cindy Hannon, and the leadership of Melissa Cleary and Elizabeth Hearn, the Lady Majors were able to continue the winning streak from last season.

The Lady Majors were very dedicated and worked hard all throughout the season. This hard work paid off because the Lady Majors finally earned the respect of the opponents as well as that of the fans. Due to their aggressive defense and outstanding offense, the team took first place at the Emory Co-Ed Classic in Atlanta, Georgia. The Lady Majors also took first place in their own invitational tournament in January. The Lady Majors' aggressive defense and unselfish team play contributed to a ten game winning streak during the middle of the season.

The team was very young; with only one senior, Jamie Witt, two juniors, Melissa Cleary, and Elizabeth Hearn, three sophomores, Shawn Hebert, Angelia Cockerham, Elizabeth Black, and four freshmen, Mary Robin Harris, Susan Hearn, Stephanie Zimmerman, and Gretchen Scribner, the team is looking forward to a great season next year. One the court, the team was led by Melissa Cleary, who ranked in the top 24 for free throw % in Div III, and by Elizabeth Hearn, who was ranked in the top 20 for rebounding during part of the season. However, it was a team defense and offense that gave them an overall 15-5 record, a 12-2 record against Div III opponents, and a 3-3 record against NAIA schools.

The men's tennis team performed exceptionally well this season considering that four freshmen were played as starters. Beau Mixon, Clyde Musgrave, Stan Roberts, and Jason Smith did very well, improving as the season went on. The returning lettermen included Ken Thompson, Trey Ourso, and this year's graduating senior Michael Goetz. In the CAC conference tournament at the end of the season, the team finished just behind Trinity for the fifth place position, and ended up with an overall record of 4-11. Receiving awards at the sports banquet were Trey Ourso, who got the Most Improved Player award, and Jason Smith, who got the Most Inspirational award.

The women's tennis team did very well considering that it consisted of four first year players, Nancy Bobo, Becky Trautman, Margaret Minor, and Christy Brown. Returning players from last year's team were Stephanie Warmbrod, Andrea Alfonso, Nicole Billeaud, Nancy Garret and Tricia Gleason. The combined record was 8-15. Receiving awards at the sports banquet were Cheryl Brown, with the Most Improved Player award, Becky Trautman and Margaret Minor, who received the Inspirational Player award, and Tricia Gleason, who received the Senior award.

The 1990 Millsaps cross country team continued to experience growing pains in only its third year of existence. Undaunted, each member sacrificed many long hours and trained hard to improve times. With the help of Coach Todd Munch, last year's premier runner for Millsaps, many runners on the team posted personal records. Returning from last year's team were Lacy Sturdivant, Jay Tull, Ken Williams, Jon Neff, Blair Richards, Myrtle Hoover, and Missy Richey. Newcomers John Teal, Kristy Richardson, and Teresa White contributed significantly. Next season, the team faces a cross road as five members from this year's team will be lost to graduation.

A Promising Season

This year's team consisted mostly of sophomores, Todd Sutherland, Matt Mitchell, and Trip Slappey, and juniors, Brad Ray, and Eric Hatten, with the lone senior being David Lester. Greg Maloney and Phil Middleton, both freshmen, made important contributions. This past season was a good learning experience for the players. The team will miss the services of graduating senior David Lester. We wish him good luck in the future. At the sports banquet, Greg Maloney received the Most Outstanding Golfer award, Matt Mitchell received the Most Improved Golfer award, and Eric Hatten received the Spirit award.

It would be best to describe the 1991 Millsaps baseball team as one that faced many challenges and succeeded beyond expectation. Considering the success of the 1990 Majors, the many open spots in the lineup created by graduation, injury, and other unforeseen reasons, the 1991 Majors, under third year head coach Jim Page and assistant coaches Steve Hancock and Trey Porter, soared beyond many a critic's expectations. The team met many challenges head on smashing the season record for wins, recording a 27-10-1 overall record, and totalling an impressive 13-2-1 record en route to their second straight CAC championship. After opening the season with a two game seep of the very successful Augustina College, the Majors set out to Texas to take on Trinity University. They dropped two out of three games and struggled to a 7-7-1 record before winning 20 of their last 23 games. This success was the result of the team batting average, .323, as well as the team RA, 3.53, which was four runs lower than the previous year. The hitters, led by Chris Verdery, Jake Welsh, and Kelby Gilmer, collected an amazing 82 doubles in addition to 15 triples and 14 home runs. The Majors also stole 106 bases in only 38 games. Individually, Verdery led the team with a .434 batting average. Kelby Gilmer, the team MVP with a batting average of .421, led the team in runs (48), hits (53), triples (5), home runs (5), and RBIs (44). Welsh earned the Best Offensive Player award by collecting 12 doubles, 34 RBIs, and a .342 batting average. Andrew Meyers hitting .365, led the team with 18 stolen bases and was a pivotal part of the Majors' success. His return to the team coincided with the beginning of the Majors' winning stretch. The pitching staff held opponents to a .256 batting average and amassed a team ERA of 3.53. The staff was led by Parke Pepper, Danny Meyers, and Scott Williams. Pepper finished the season with a 6-0 record and was also named the 1991 Millsaps Most Outstanding Pitcher. As of May 6, the 1991 season may not be over for the Majors. They have been highly considered by the NCAA Div III South Regional selection committee to receive a bid to the South Regional tournament on May 16-19. If they can receive a bid and win the regional, the Majors would qualify for the 1991 Div III World Series in Battle Creek, Michigan. The 1991 season could not have been a success without the play and leadership of this year's seniors who have made the Millsaps College baseball program what it is today. It will be very hard to replace these five men, but we thank them for everything they have done for the program and wish them luck in whatever they do.

Organizations

The many student organizations at Millsaps provide an opportunity for the student to grow in his or her intellectual, artistic, and social individuality. Academic honoraries give under-graduates an opportunity to broaden their experiences in their chosen fields of study. Through service clubs, students may use their diverse talents to reach out to those in need. Each service project touches both the heart of the receiving individual and that of the giving student. Those interested in the performing arts are provided with an atmosphere in which they may express their creativity. Other Millsaps students choose to become involved in publications, organizations that help to inform, enlighten, and entertain the general student body. As you can see, academic and social organizations are a vital part of the total liberal education Millsaps College offers its students.

Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council of Millsaps College recognizes the potentials of a unified Greek system. Representing over seventy percent of the male population, the IFC must work hard to give this system an ultimate purpose. Over the past three years, the IFC has made great advances towards this goal. For example, 1990 was the first year for the new delayed rush system which gave freshmen more time to adapt to the pressures of college life. Also, there has been tremendous interest in having a Greek sponsored social event on campus; and the Spring of 1991 brought this to Millsaps under the title of the 1st Annual Greek Street Party. Other things to look for in the future include a Junior IFC which will start the campus leadership process early, a Greek newsletter to facilitate communication, and a general effort to improve relations between the Greeks and the administration. Taking these aspects into consideration, the purpose of the Millsaps Greek system is to build responsible leaders who will make strides toward a more unified Millsaps Community.

The society's goals are to recognize outstanding scholarship in French language and literature, to increase the knowledge and admiration of Americans for the contributions made by France to world culture and to stimulate and encourage cultural activities which will lead to a deeper appreciation of France and its people. Pi Delta Phi has as its members students who excel in their French courses. Members are also chosen from among the faculty and friends of Millsaps College.

This framework is designed to promote the active participation of students in the development of campus activities and a forum for the communication of student interests and concerns. This is achieved by a student government, representative organizations and committee participation. The officers were: President, Ron Downey; 1st Vice President, Shelby Shingler; 2nd Vice President, Robin Magee; Secretary, Alicia Peterson; Treasurer, Natalie Burwell.

Student Alumni Association

The Student Alumni Association is a Millsaps organization seeking to form a link between the alumni to the student body, develop the student's awareness of the college's mission, and his/her loyalty to the institution, and to carry the fundamental being of the college to groups inside and outside of the Millsaps community. Some of the activities done by SAA are the Parents' Weekend, Arts and Lecture Series, class reunions, and campus tours. To obtain membership, a student must possess and maintain an overall GPA of 2.5 and be dedicated and be willing to put forth the effort to the Student Alumni Association.

Sigma Lambda

Sigma Lambda was founded by Omicron Delta Kappa to recognize leadership and to encourage service to the college. Membership is determined on the basis of scholarship, leadership, service, and participation in a wide range of campus activities. A minimum overall GPA of 3.0 is required for membership.

Troubadours

The members of Troubadours are chosen in the Fall by an open audition from the membership of The Singers. The group specialize in a cappella works ranging from madrigals to jazz. Throughout the year, the Troubs work to present intimate and sophisticated concerts including campus events, church socials, high school presentations, and other cultural events. The Millsaps Troubadours, under the direction of Dr. Timothy Coker, represented the college in several off-campus performances including church services and medleys of Broadway musicals. On-campus entertainment included a Christmas carol study break preceding first semester exams and the presentation of Bach's cantata "Christ lag in Todesbanden" with members of the Mississippi symphony orchestra in the second semester.

Woodwind Ensemble

The woodwind ensemble was created for those students who enjoy playing in a small ensemble atmosphere. It is for those who would like to continue their band experience from high school. This year the ensemble performed a spring concert consisting of two duets and six solos. The ensemble can be taken for an hour's fine arts credit, or it can be audited. It is a single semester course.

Theta Nu Sigma

Theta Nu Sigma, the Natural Science Honorary, was created at Millsaps College on May 12, 1943. Its charter members include J.B. Price and Charles Calloway. Theta Nu Sigma's purpose is to provide an opportunity for increased fellowship among those having scientific interests. Requirements for membership are the completion of at least one semester in each of at least three of the natural sciences, with an overall GPA of 3.0 or better in the sciences.

Singers

The Millsaps Singers presented two major works during the school year. The world premier of "Canticles of Time," commissioned especially for the celebration of the College's centennial year, took place in the Jackson Municipal Auditorium on Friday, Nov. 30, 1990. Because of the difficulty of this extraordinary choral symphony, the entire fall semester was given to preparing for this special concert.

The spring semester was dedicated to preparing and presenting one of the most beautiful and beloved sacred works of Western choral literature, Johannes Brahms' EIN DEUTSCHES REQUIEM. Singers, accompanied by members of the Mississippi Symphony Orchestra, performed this masterpiece, in English, on Friday, April 12, 1991.

Phi Beta Kappa

Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest college academic honorary in the United States. Founded at William and Mary College in 1776, it recognizes and encourages excellence in the liberal arts. Only 240 colleges and universities have chapters of Phi Beta Kappa. The Millsaps chapter was installed in March 1988 as the Alpha chapter of Mississippi. Each spring the chapter elects to membership in Phi Beta Kappa approximately ten percent of the graduating class. To be eligible for election, a student must complete a liberal arts degree (BA, BS or BLS) and exhibit breadth in the liberal arts, including mathematics and foreign language. The Millsaps chapter may on occasion host a visiting lecturer through the auspices of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, but its primary activity is the annual election of students to membership. There is probably no more widely recognized mark of academic distinction than membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

You will see them all over the campus. They are everywhere and they are involved! From varsity sports to the Millsaps Players, from the Student Body Association to Singers, the Greeks here at Millsaps are always involved. The Greek way of life is full. Not only are the Greeks active on campus, but they are also active off campus as well. All of the sororities and fraternities are involved with special philanthropies that are important to them. And, of course, what would a Greek system be without parties??? Both informal and formal parties are in the Greek system at Millsaps. All in all, the Greek system on the Millsaps campus is fun filled and any Greek here will tell you that the Greek way of life is Great!!!

MILLSAPS COLLEGE

A message from the President

The 1990-1991 academic year has been a year of celebration and accomplishment. This fall, we continued our year-long Centennial celebration, which began February 11, 1990. The magnificent "Canticles of Time," created by Millsaps alumni John Stone and Sam Jones, and performed so beautifully by the Millsaps Singers and the Mississippi Symphony, marked the close of an era and the beginning of a new chapter in the history of Millsaps College.

Millsaps students, faculty and staff have continued to participate in the Centennial Voluntary Service Project, a project that has enabled the College to say "thank you" to the Jackson community for its support during the past 100 years.

Next fall, the newly renovated Sullivan-Harrell Hall will be ready for occupancy and will provide additional up-to-date classroom and laboratory facilities. The College's Second Century Commission is in the process of assessing needs and making recommendations in the areas of student services, academic program and enrollment.

As we dream of the great things that can happen at Millsaps, our second century promises to be even better than the first.

Best wishes to the Class of 1991!

George M. Harmon
President

To our Millsaps community —

As we sit down to close the eighty-third edition of the Bobashela, we cannot help but hope we have covered this year's excitement, sorrows, and happenings as well as previous books. This is true because we all realize this year was singular in nature. Therefore, we hope that in twenty years when we all sit down to look through the book, we will see our span of excellence and remember it with pride.

It became quite funny to us "women of the publications" that we were allowed to do all this work...being only sophomores. We must admit there were times we could not understand how or why we got this responsibility. However, there are some very special people who helped/support-ed us throughout the year and to the end: The Staff, Martha Lee, Kay Barksdale, Mr. Anthony, Mr. Ward, Julie Jones, Ann Rankin, Trey Porter, Cathy Thomason, Rob Bradford, and Hilary Davis. We extend to you all much deserved praise. Also, we thank Stewart Charles Cohen for a beautiful job on the cover picture.

As we conclude, we want to thank you seniors for the lessons (both good and bad) you left us with. You did your part in continuing the building of this community. We all have dreams of how it could be better, let's go for it. This is our challenge and it will be examined during "the next one hundred." Good luck!

Thanks for the
memories —

Karen & Shannon
